

STEINER DESIGN INTERIORS

In achieving an appropriate design solution, Michael Steiner, ASID, is known for first looking past the obvious answer. As he gives life to his client's dreams, this Raleigh designer relishes the challenge of elevating his creativity to the highest level. "My clients entrust me with the task of discovering what will work best, what will look best, what will best reveal their lives and their passions," explains Michael. "In satisfying their needs, I often utilize unusual materials or pieces that were perhaps meant to do something else and reinvent them in a way that ultimately creates more interest within the space."

For Michael, twenty years of experience has confirmed to him that communication is of importance equal to creativity. "I spend a lot of time with each homeowner, listening to them describe what they like and also what they don't like. They share with me their desires in terms of function, atmosphere and style. I remind my clients that in a sense we also have to listen to the house. It will tell us what will work and where we may encounter limitations. We then can seek innovative alternatives."

An award-winning designer, the body of Michael's work includes traditional, transitional and contemporary interiors. Each image within his portfolio reveals for his client, a life well lived, and for Michael, a job well done.
